Instructions for use
MoniLu® UNI Start

Safety warning

1. Your balance can be affected by your movement and also by the movement of the child.
2. Be careful when leaning forward.
3. The carrier is not suitable for sports activities.
4. Always make sure the baby has enough flow of fresh air and his mouth and nose are not covered and impervious to air.
5. Please check the condition of whole carrier, especially the functionality of all buckles before each use.
6. Always use the triple security system on the waist belt. Always check that buckle is safely locked.
7. Never unlock the waist buckle while the baby is present in the carrier.
8. When you put on or remove the baby from the carrier, always secure him/her with at least one hand.

Designed for children from birth (50cm, 3,5kg) up to about 1 year (75cm). Max. load capacity 15 kg. Always carry your child face to face! Carrier is not designed to carry child facing out from the wearer! If the child has any physiological abnormalities, consult a doctor before starting with babywearing.

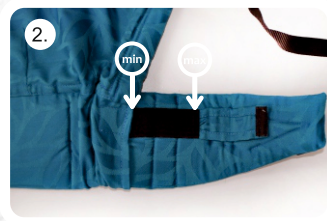

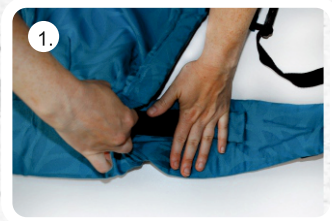

Adjustable soft structured baby carrier MoniLu UNI Start grows with your baby. It's suitable for children from birth (50cm, 3,5kg) to about 1 year (max 15kg). Size of the carrier is easily adjustable on several spots.

Width adjustment

1. Release the velcro on both sides so that you can slide it.
2. Adjust the width of the carrier to fit the size of your baby. No tightening (max) for a height of 65-75cm, the minimum for children with a height of 50 cm. The back support should always lead from knee to knee.

Height adjustment

1. Use the black straps on the front of the carrier to adjust the height. Pull down the straps to reduce the height or lift the buckle to extend. The size can be adjusted also when baby is carried inside.
2. To reduce the upper width use a rubber band under the hood.

3. Check the entire settings. Make sure that both sides of the carrier are set evenly.

4. Straighten the waist belt. Before each wear, make sure that the velcro fasteners align with their opposites.

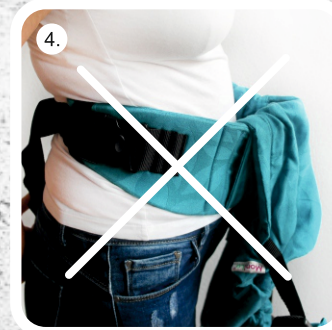

Front carry

- 1.-2. Place the waist belt on your waist. Pull the buckle through the safety rubber band, fasten the buckle and secure the safety lock (triple security system!) and tight the belt.

- 3.-4. Rotate the carrier to your front and tight the belt properly. The upper part of the padding firmly wraps around the body.

5. Place the baby towards your belly in an ergonomic position: the baby's buttocks below, knees higher and legs well spread. The waist belt is between you and the baby's buttocks.
6. Rise the back support over the baby's back and put on the shoulder straps, one by one.

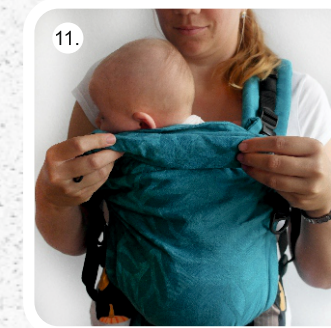

7. Fasten the back buckle and tighten the strap according to your needs.
8. Gently pull the back support towards baby's shoulders.

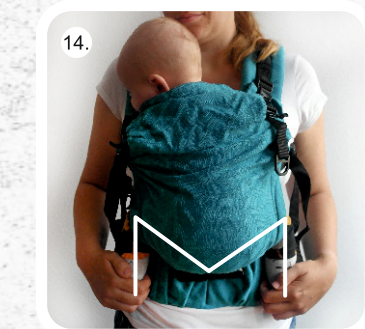

- 9.-10. For newborns up to about 6-8 weeks, we recommend switching the side straps under the baby's buttocks. Unfasten the shoulder strap, loosen it sufficiently and guide it under the baby's knee. Snap the buckle into the trident under the child's buttocks. Tighten the straps as required.

- 11.-12. For small babies without firm neck, use rolled up hood as neck support. Roll up the hood and attach its rubber bands in the hooks placed on the shoulder straps and tighten as needed.

- 13.-14. The seating position is right if baby's bum covers one third of waist belt, baby's bum lower, knees higher, creating the letter M.

Until the child sits alone, the backrest should reach to the baby's neck and baby's arms should stay inside the carrier.

When your baby falls asleep, you can secure the baby's head with a hood by attaching it to the upper hooks on the shoulder straps.

The shoulder straps can also be crossed, a practical video guide can be found at www.monilu.eu.

You can also carry the baby on your back. One of the ways how to move baby safely from the belly to the back find at www.monilu.eu.
